Court Enjoins the Union Teamsters.

VIOLENCE IS REPORTED

Business in Chicago is Generally Tied Up on Account of the Strike.

COURT ISSUES AN INJUNCTION

Teamsters' Union Issued a Proclamation Requesting Them to Permit no Violation of Peace Under Any Circumstances During Difficulties.

Chicago, April 28.—For the first time since the strike of the American Railway Union in 1894, the government has been made a party to the labor troubles in this city. The government was brought into the teamsters' strike today by the issuance of an injunction by Judge C. C. Kohlsaat of the United States circuit court.

The writ was asked for on behalf of the Employers' Teamsters' Association on the ground that the organization was incorporated under the laws of West Virginia, and, therefore, under the protection of the federal court. The order commands all defendants to refrain from any interference with the business of the Employers' Teamsters' Association on the ground that the organization was incorporated under the laws of West Virginia, and, therefore, under the protection of the federal court. The order commands all defendants to refrain from any interference with the business of the Employers' Teamsters' Association on the ground that the organization was incorporated under the laws of West Virginia, and, therefore, under the protection of the federal court.

"To all union teamsters: Permit no violence of peace under any circumstances. Competent drivers cannot be secured to handle the teams in Chicago and violence will not help us in this strike. Be loyal to your union and obey its instructions."

The strike spread rapidly throughout the day, most of the teamsters going out, but they were employed by small concerns. There are now about 3500 teamsters on strike and their inaction has largely deprived about 15,000 other men from work. Express drivers were instructed by the strike leaders to carry coffins and flowers to funerals and in no manner interfere with the shipment of corpses. Three persons were seriously injured during street fighting today. Steady progress is being made by the Employers' Teamsters' Association in securing men to take the places of the strikers.

GENERAL LEE DEAD

Brigadier General Fitzhugh Lee Dead at Washington.

APOPLEXY WAS THE CAUSE

Was Suddenly Attacked While on the Train From Boston to Washington—General Was Conscious Until Within Five Minutes of His Death.

Washington, April 28.—Brigadier General Fitzhugh Lee, of the United States army, died at Providence hospital, in this city tonight, aged 68 years. He had an attack of apoplexy which he suffered early this morning on the train en route from Boston to Washington. After the general had been moved to the hospital this morning it was evident to the attending physicians that his case was a serious one, but they hoped his strong vitality and will power would assist materially in a partial recovery, at least from this attack.

His condition remained fair, considering the severity of the attack during the day, but shortly after 9 o'clock he began to grow weaker, the breathing became more rapid and the pulse lower, terminating in less than two hours in his death. The end was peaceful and without pain, the general remaining conscious until within five minutes of the end. Half an hour before his death General Lee recognized his brother, Daniel Lee, who came into the room for a moment.

In the room when he died were Dr. Montgomery, one of the physicians at the hospital; Miss Dorsey, a relative and nurse. A pathetic feature of his death, was although blessed with a family, consisting of a wife and five children, not one of them was with him at his death. General Lee was conscious throughout and recognized all of those who were admitted to the sick room.

The orders of Lieutenant George Lee, a son, who was about to sail for the Philippines, has been changed. He will come to Washington and it is expected will be accompanied by his sister, wife of Lieutenant Brown, who is also on the Pacific coast, where orders were issued directing him to sail with his regiment for the Philippines. Arrangements for the funeral, together with the selection of the place of interment will not be made until after the arrival in Washington of Mrs. Lee, now on her way to that city from Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

The prosecution finished its case just before adjournment of the court and later Counsel O'Reilly of the counsel for Miss Patterson, notified the prosecution that his side would submit no defense and would rest on the contention that the state had failed to make any case against the defendant.

When the case is called next Monday, to which time the court adjourned Assistant District Attorney Rand will immediately begin summing up the case for the state. Besides this, the succession of events which marked today's proceedings, the defense submitted a motion to dismiss the indictment on the grounds of the insufficiency of the testimony, but the court overruled the motion.

The testimony of the prisoner's sister, Mrs. J. Morgan Smith, was taken today in which she made some interesting statements, but stood on her rights to refuse to answer questions, on the ground that the answers might incriminate her. Mr. Rands promised to quash the indictment of conspiracy against Mrs. Smith if she would answer the questions. The defense protested against the action of counsel for the prosecution and the merciless method of questioning was badgering the witness. The court rejected the much quoted letter of Mrs. Smith to Young, expressing the fear as to the consequences to Young if he did not see her sister.

FACTS IN CASE

Broadhead Interest in Bigelow Defalcation.

CONDITION OF ESTATES

Bulk of Property in Trusteeship for the Benefit of the Heirs.

BANK STOCK SQUANDERED

Original Broadhead Estate Amounted to $1,400,000 and Was Devised to J. H. Broadhead of Kingston and His Six Surviving Children.

New York, April 28.—John H. Broadhead of Kingston, N. Y., one of the heirs of the Broadhead estate, of which Frank G. Bigelow of Milwaukee was a trustee, has just started for Wisconsin from this city. Concerning the affairs of the estate he said:

"Though several statements have already been imputed to me concerning the Bigelow failure. I have made none until the present. Edward H. Broadhead, who was my uncle, died in 1890, leaving about $1,400,000. About $500,000 was shortly thereafter distributed under the provisions of the will. The balance, with a present value of about $800,000, was put under trusteeship for the benefit of myself and my children. The surviving beneficiaries, aside from myself, are my children, John C. Broadhead, Jr., and Charles Broadhead of Kingston; Abraham D. Broadhead of New Falls, N. Y., and Margaret F. Broadhead, together with the wife of my deceased son, W. T. Broadhead, and her daughter, Cornelia.

"The estate included real estate valued approximately at $700,000 and $100,000 in bank stocks. Besides, there was about $32,000 in cash derived from the sale of real estate and other sources in the hands of Mr. Bigelow.

"I am advised by my lawyers in Milwaukee that the real estate is intact, but as to the bank stock I know only what I have read in the press dispatches, which say that Bigelow made use of the stocks. Of the cash I merely assume that it was deposited in the bank to the credit of the beneficiaries under the trust. It will probably take a little time to discover the status of the cash and securities."

NEW KIND OF FRUIT.

Burbank of California Invents a New Dish Called Pomato.

San Francisco, April 28.—The Examiner says today that Luther Burbank of Santa Rosa, has succeeded in producing another wonderful creation which will come under the head of potatoe experiments and is known as a "Potato Fruit." Briefly summarized, the evolution is a matter of planting a tuber and gathering from the potato vine a luscious white fruit, one that is delightfully palatable, and makes excellent preserves.

Mr. Burbank has named the new fruit "Pomato."

When compared with a tomato the pomato is smaller in size and its meat is white instead of red. It is highly flavored. In other words, its flavor is that of a fruit rather than a vegetable. Burbank speaks of the creation of the pomato as resulting from the turning of the plant life in an opposite direction.

"Instead of cultivating tubers we now cultivate fruit, and the tubers are of secondary consideration," he said. "The fruit on the vine being the main object."

Mr. Burbank has now some 10,000 varieties of potatoes with which he is experimenting. Most of them are hybrid seedlings of his own creation.

HEIR TO A FORTUNE

Poor Engineer Inherits His Father's Fortune.

FATHER SUPPOSED TO BE DEAD

Deserted His Wife and Three Children in Brooklyn Forty Years Ago and Married Another Woman, Leaves an Estate Valued at $150,000.

New York, April 28.—Dispatches from Pittsburg announcing that by the will of David James, who died on Saturday, it has been learned his real name was Jamison, that he had deserted his wife and three sons in Brooklyn 40 years ago, have proved a great surprise to the only living son who still resides in Brooklyn and gains a livelihood as a stationary engineer.

The will, which has just been opened, is in the nature of an atonement to the deserted family, as it gives them an estate worth $150,000. It shows that Jamison went to Pittsburg, changed his name and married another woman, who is now dead. She knew nothing of his double life and the family in Brooklyn long ago gave up the husband and father as dead. One after another they dropped off until now only the one son mentioned remains and he will receive the entire estate.

It appears that Jamison was stricken 15 years ago with cancer and underwent numerous operations, losing his right arm by degrees and finally part of his collar bone, but the disease finally won.

The surviving son tells a sad story of how his mother struggled to educate and support her children after the father disappeared. She took in washing and succeeded in her task, however, and when the sons grew up they supported her. She died last August.

One of the boys lost his life accidentally three years ago, while the oldest died ten years ago. No word was ever received of the father from the day of his disappearance until reporters carried to the tenement where the engineer lives word of his good fortune.
